Vinoina Street.—The work of laying pavetient on Virginia street, Island, between Front and Penn streets, was commenced yesterday. Since this street has been filled up and curbing set its appearance has been greally improved, and when the pavenents have all been laid there will not be a finer thoroughfare in the city. These improvements are largely due to the untiring energy and enterprise of Mr. E. J. Stone, to whom the citizens living in the locality cannot be too grateful. And, by the way, we noticed Mr. Stone and a couple of laborers laying a substantial stone crossing over Penn street, at its intersection with Virginia, a few days since. The crossing at this point has for years been nothing more or less than an ugly mud puddle, and the improvement is one that has long been badly needed. The new crossing, we understand, was paid for by private subscription.

EAST WHEELING EXCITED.—At 2 o'clock yesterday morning, citizens residing on 15th and 16th streets, East Wheeling, were startled from their slumbers by the cries of a woman in distress. In an moment some half-dozen windows were hoisted, and as many night-capped heads thrust out, while several voices were heard calling upon the supposed ruffians to release their prisoner and be off. One or two of the bravest burghers easily along the word of the woman, and were polite-sessistance of the woman, and were politeceases forth in undress uniform to the sessistance of the woman, and were polite-ly told to go about their business. She was in the custody of a couple of policemen, who were taking her to the lockup. Only this and nothing more.
